Luke brings a strong blend of project management expertise and formal education to the CS&R team. Since 2017, he has successfully delivered large-scale residential remediation projects for commercial and body corporate clients, as well as upgrade works for Ministry of Education facilities.

Luke graduated from Unitec in 2020 with a Bachelor of Construction, majoring in Construction Management. During his studies, he achieved notable recognition by winning first prize in the 2019 BRANZ ArchEngBuild competition for final-year construction students. His team's innovative design focused on facilitating a zero-carbon city through environmentally conscious building practices that promote sustainability in design, construction, and use.

With six years of experience in client representation and serving as an Engineer's Representative, Luke has a strong understanding of contractual processes, problem-solving, and conflict management. His professional interests include contract law and standardising construction practices to improve industry productivity. He is also a member of the Institute of Managers and Leaders.

Outside of work, Luke enjoys reading both fiction and non-fiction, actively participates in his local BNI chapter, and supports charitable initiatives focused on animal welfare.
